In response to applicant's pre-amendment dated April 12, 2005. The following action is taken:

Claims 1-9 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: none of the cited prior art shows or teaches an optical disk thickness discriminating apparatus wherein the disk thickness is determined by a difference in a focusing error signal amplitude generated by a deviation between the laser passing through an outer peripheral of the objective lens and the laser passing through the inner peripheral of the objective lens in addition the prior art does not show or teach storing the maximum and minimum values of a focusing error signal amplitude during the lens movement up/down and discriminating the disk thickness based on the difference between the absolute value of the maximum to the absolute value of the minimum stored during a measuring step.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. 5748597.
